Rep. Tim DeGeeter files for Parma mayoral race

PARMA – State Rep. Timothy J. DeGeeter (D-Parma) has filed official paperwork to begin his bid for Parma mayor. Rep. DeGeeter, along with his wife, Pam, and their two-year-old son, Jack, presented the required petitions Monday at the Board of Elections. The deadline for filing is Wednesday.

Having his family along for the filing was essential to Rep. DeGeeter because it is symbolic of his commitment to the community.

“I made it official today – I’m running for mayor of Parma,” Rep. DeGeeter said. “And I’m glad that Pam and Jack were here for this. When Pam and I moved into this community and decided to raise a family here, it was because we believe in Parma. And that’s why I’m running for the privilege and honor of serving as mayor of this great city.”

Rep. DeGeeter has spent the past seven years in the Ohio House, after serving five years as Parma’s Ward Four councilman. He decided to pursue the mayor’s office after the current mayor, Dean DePiero, announced he was not seeking a third term.

Rep. DeGeeter and his family live on Tuxedo Avenue.
